

Prairieland Transit System

Agency Background

Prairieland Transit System operates dial-a-ride demand response service and four deviated routes throughout various portions of Nobles County, as well as a fixed route in Worthington.

Public transportation was first available in Nobles County in 1988 utilizing a Nobles County Heartland Express bus. The service expanded in 1999 and became part of Prairieland Transit System through a partnership developed between the City of Worthington, Nobles County, and Southwestern Minnesota Opportunity Council (SMOC). Prairieland Transit System is comprised of Nobles County Heartland Express buses and a contract with a private provider, Worthington Taxi Service.
